We close at 9 p. m. Saturdays.

NO TWO FROCKS
are made exactly alike, and that's why every woman has to send special instructions when her gowns go to the cleaners or pressers.

That's why so many ladies send their clothes to us. We watch for the little things they want done about them, follow every instruction and get the clothes back promptly when promised.

just to make it a spley dish there has been gathered around the fun-making of the two stars a big bevy of little blondes and big brunettes and big blondes and little brunettes costumed until it's an even guess as to whether the girls are going up or the gowns coming down, a jumble of catchy tunes with here and there a rather more pretentious melody and the whole so ably directed and staged that you have to go home an hour too soon.

Aside from the girls it is pretty much McIntyre and Heath, but not all. Among those who keep the music and laughs going are Julian Rose as Rosenstein, Flora Crosbie, Marion Stanley, who sings "I'd Like To Correspond With You" and "Romeo and Juliet" charmingly; Fletcher Norton as Bertie Scott, Harry Holbrook and Miss Reynolds, a vivacious young lady who is very much to the good. Mr. Norton's "Come, Toddle Along" and Miss Reynold's "Captain Flo" are among the song hits.

The engagement closes tonight and that means but two more chances to see the show, and it is worth seeing.

ORPHEUM.

The story is sad and short.

Someone either juggled conference dates and rang in Walter Stanton, McIntyre and Groves and the Kate Watson-Gus Cohan company seven days too soon or the Beck chestnut tree got a jolt last week that left it bare. In either event the result to the first half of the bill at the State street house is the same this week. Stanton's bird act is sacred to history, while the Watson-Cohan "Hoosier" thing is about as funny as a fire. With McIntyre and Groves, they go one, two three on the bill and together with Mankin in his antiquated frog act, stretch the first half of the evening into one long ache for everybody in the house.

Bert Leslie, in "Hogan in Society," at the Orpheum next week

The only artistic touch on the program is Paul Seldoms' reproduction of statuary. His models and particularly Erna Claren are splendidly coached and the lady is pretty nearly all that is claimed for her physically. The various reproductions attempted were finely posed by Miss
